

Next (grade) level gifting.

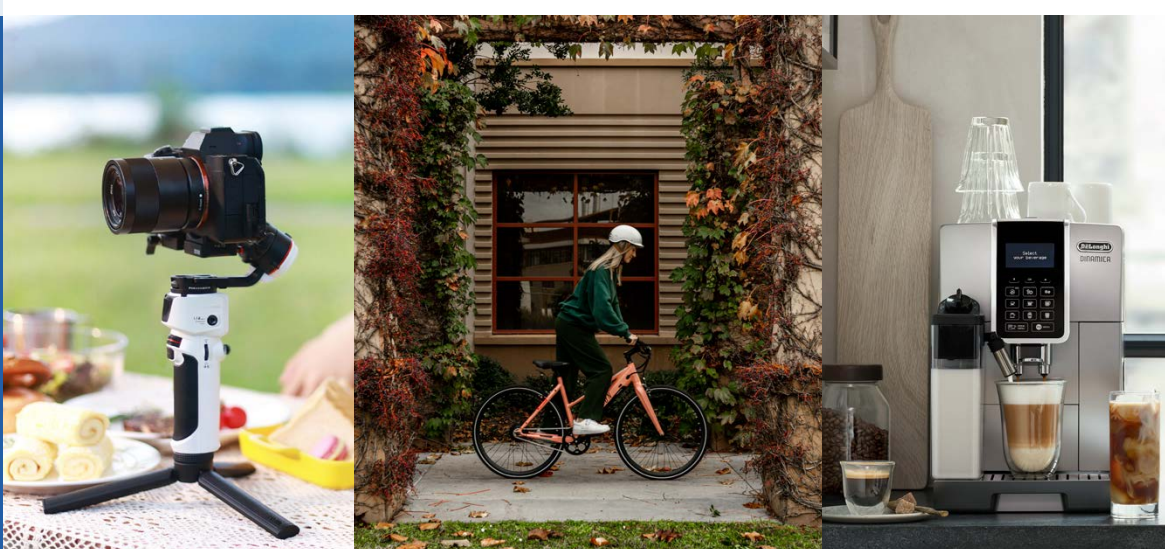

It's graduation season! It's time to celebrate those moving up the education ladder or completing their education and moving into the "real" world. There are few ways to better celebrate their accomplishments than with the gift of tech. But it can be hard to know what's right for their age, skill level or interest. Thankfully, with a free consultation with a Best Buy® Home Expert, we'll help you find them the perfect gift—whether you want to gift them with something for fun, for their continued education, for their future dorm room, or for their next step in life outside of school. If you've got a grad, or two or three, we've got gift ideas. Let's go!

Gifts that compute.

The right laptop or computer makes an amazing gift for any graduate. The trick is finding the right one for their school, education level, needs or interests. PC or Mac? How much memory will they need? Desktop or laptop? 2-in-1, gaming, super-portable or ultra-powerful? In our online Student Hub we offer a Laptop Finder that helps walk you through several of these options to narrow down your choice. Better yet, meet with a Home Expert trained to ask the right questions and know the right answers.

The fun stuff.

When it comes to giving a fun gift they're going to enjoy for years to come, we've got you covered. Got a photographer on your list? We have camera experts who can find you the perfect DSLR camera that will take their hobby to the next level. Gamers shop us already, so whether you hit them up with the latest system, game or gaming accessory, we've got what they want. Electric bikes and boards make a great gift for them to get around town or campus. For those fitness grades, we've got loads of exercise equipment from some of the top brands in the industry. Or maybe you have someone who just really loves coffee. The right espresso or coffee maker could make their morning or day, every day. And of course, we've got your music- or movie-loving grad covered with everything from the right TVs, projectors, speakers, surround sound units, even turntables, tunes and movies to go with them.

For the soon-to-be college student.

For many high school grads, getting the right gear for their dorm makes an amazing grad gift. Dorm-size refrigerators, microwaves, desks or desk chairs are just the start of what we can help you with. A Home Expert will discuss with you and your grad what they're looking for out of their new dorm room, and work with you, your budget and your ideas to come up with a solution that will make them the coolest person on their floor. TVs, sound systems, video game consoles, smart lighting: we have what students want to bring their new "home" to life.

We know students.

For many of us, those high school and college days are long gone—and knowing what students want or even need these days can be confusing. Thankfully, our Best Buy Home Experts are in tune with today's students, the latest gear, and how to bring it all together. Schedule a consultation, a chat or a phone call with a Home Expert and find out what the best gifts are for your grad.

Everyone is different, and we'll be sure to match the right gift for their wants and needs as well as your budget.
