Where Should You Place Your Birdbath?

Place your birdbath in a location with some shade to keep the water cool and slow down algae growth. Avoid placing it in direct sunlight.

If there are cats or other predators in your area, make sure there's enough open space around the birdbath—especially between the bath and nearby shrubs or bushes. This gives birds a clear view of their surroundings and time to escape if danger approaches.

Position the birdbath away from bird feeders to prevent seeds, shells, and debris from contaminating the water.

To reduce the risk of birds hitting windows, position your birdbath either closer than 3 feet (0.9 meters) or farther than 15 feet (4.6 meters) from any windows.

If the birdbath must be placed near windows, apply decals or window tape to make the glass more visible to birds.

Add Perches and Stones

Place a few pebbles, flat stones, or small branches in the birdbath that rise above the water level. These give smaller birds a safe landing spot and an easy way to climb out.

Keep Water Moving and Fresh

Birds are attracted to the sound of moving water. Consider adding a water wiggler (not included) to keep the water circulating. This also helps prevent mosquitoes from breeding.

Refill the water frequently to keep it clean and fresh. A dripper system can help automate this and keep birds coming back.

Clean the Birdbath

Clean Regularly

Clean your birdbath at least once a week to remove algae, dirt, and bird droppings. Use a scrub brush and clean water (no harsh chemicals).

Algae Control

Adding a copper disc to the birdbath can help inhibit algae growth and keep the water cleaner for longer.

Periodic Drying

Allow the birdbath to dry out periodically to help kill any lingering pathogens or parasites.

Keep Water at a Safe Temperature Year-Round

Summer

On hot days, drop in a block of ice to keep the water cool and refreshing.

Winter

Use a birdbath heater to prevent the water from freezing. Never add antifreeze, glycerin, or any chemicals—these substances are toxic to birds and other wildlife.
