Package Contents

The CUJO package (no. 1) contains the following:

- CUJO device (no. 2)
- Power adapter (no. 3) - to connect the CUJO device to a power source.
The adapter is compatible with 100-240V 50-60Hz power.
It also comes with an appropriate power plug based on your location.
- Ethernet cable (no. 4) to connect CUJO to your router (length: 3 feet / 1 meter)
- Information card with the MAC address of the CUJO device and a link to the online instruction page

CUJO Device

Back view of the CUJO device:

- Pin hole for the reset button (no. 1)
- Top port (no. 2) for Bridge mode. The CUJO device expects to find an access point or switch connected to this port. It also works with routers set to “Bridge mode” (like Apple AirPort, Eero, OnHub, Google WiFi and etc.)
- Bottom port (no. 3) to connect to an internet source. CUJO expects to find a router connected to this port.
- Power socket (no. 4) for the power cord

CUJO App

Before you proceed to set up CUJO as a security device for your network, please download the CUJO app for your mobile device. Supported devices:

- Apple devices (iPhone, iPad). Minimum iOS v. 8.4.1, screen 640x960
- Android devices (phones and tablets). Minimum Android v. 4.1.1, screen 540x960

All configurations, controls, and notifications are handled using the CUJO app.

To keep CUJO itself secure, it only connects to the CUJO Cloud Service using an encrypted channel. The CUJO app and the CUJO device only communicate directly to the CUJO Cloud Service and there is no other interface to access the CUJO device.

You can download the app from the App Store or Google Play:

Setup Introduction

This document contains detailed instructions to set up your CUJO. The following is a short summary of the steps required:

- 1) CUJO App
 - Download and install the CUJO app on your mobile phone (iOS or Android)
 - Open the CUJO app and sign up
 - Follow the step-by-step instructions on the CUJO app
- 2) Connect your CUJO
 - Take a look at the possible setup examples to decide on a way to connect your CUJO to your network
- 3) Connect to the same network
 - Connect your mobile device with the CUJO app installed to the same network as your CUJO device
- 4) Activate
 - Activate your CUJO device on the app and finish the setup
- 5) Firmware update
 - CUJO will detect the newest firmware version and will start an update if necessary

Connect Your CUJO

There are two ways to connect your CUJO to your network:

- 1) Direct connection (DHCP mode) - CUJO is connected to the router as any other device. This mode needs configuration changes on your router.
- 2) Bridged connection (Bridge mode) - CUJO sits in between your router (upstream) and one of the following: a wireless access point, a network switch, or a another router. In bridge mode, there is no configuration change needed for your upstream device. There may be some configuration changes required on your downstream device. All devices connected to your downstream device are protected.

Option 1: Direct Connection

Connect your CUJO just like any other device to your router. Use the bottom Ethernet port on your CUJO and any open port on your router. Your router could be connected to a modem or it could be connected to a combo router + modem.

With a direct connection, your CUJO can operate in two modes:

DHCP mode. In this mode, CUJO will be running the DHCP server, but it requires disabling the DHCP server on your router. The CUJO app will help you change the DHCP settings automatically. Before the changes take place, we will ask you to provide login credentials for your router. Or you can choose to do it manually by following the step-by-step guide on your CUJO app or proceed further with this manual.

If you have any questions or difficulties with the setup, let us know. Our support team will be happy to help you. Contact us at hi@getcujo.com or 1-844-GET-CUJO.

Standby mode. In this mode, CUJO is just another device connected to your router, it does not protect your network. When CUJO is set in Standby mode, the CUJO support team will be happy to help you with the setup remotely. Contact us at hi@getcujo.com or 1-844-GET-CUJO.

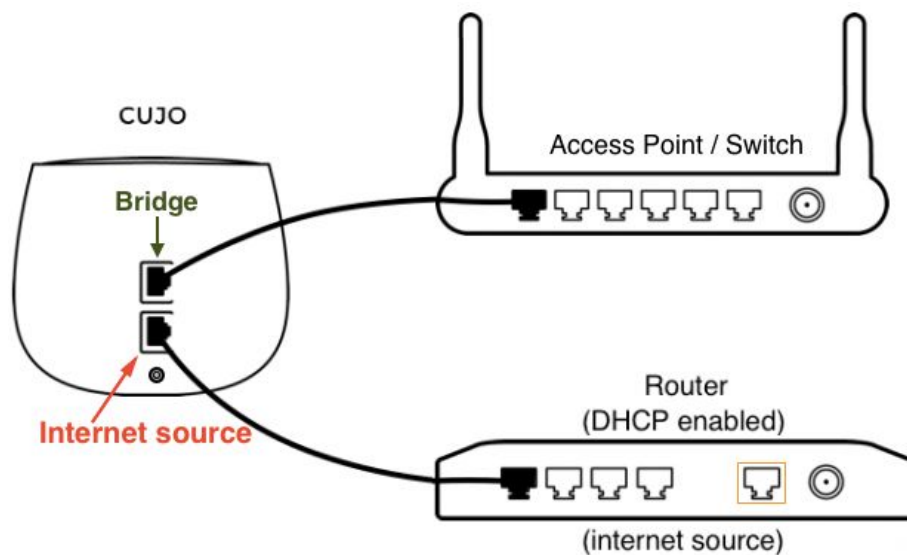

* If you experience any connectivity issues, try switching to Bridge mode or call our support.

Option 2: Bridged Connection

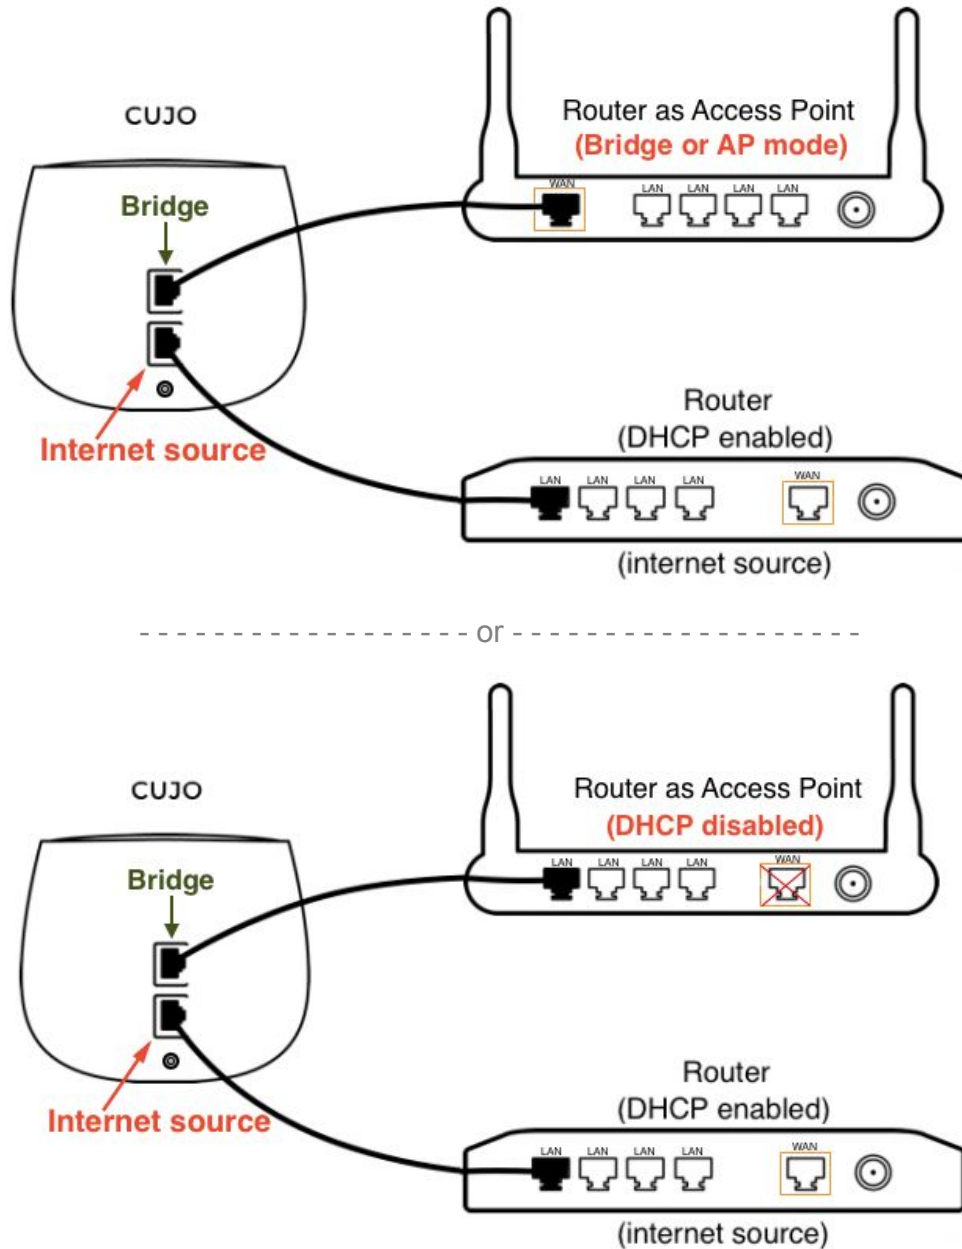

If you have a router provided by your cable company (Comcast, AT&T, etc), but your connected devices are connecting to a switch, access point or another router (like the Apple Express or Google OnHub routers), then it's best to use this method.

Connect your cable company's router (the internet source) to bottom Ethernet port of your CUJO.

Connect your other access point or switch to the upper Ethernet port of your CUJO.

You can connect to a router instead of an access point or switch, but in that case you need an additional configuration of that router.

There are two ways to configure your router:

- Disable NAT and DHCP on your router. Usually, router manufacturers call it “Bridge” (“Eero”, “Apple AirPort”, “OnHub”), “Access Point” (AP) (“Asus”) or “Wireless Access Point” (“Netgear”) mode.
- If you are unable to turn off NAT functionality, you can turn off DHCP and plug your ethernet cable from the WAN port to the LAN port (“TP-Link Archer”).

Please see the article for Compatibility
To get more technical information refer to our FAQ page.

Make sure that the CUJO's eyes are up (smiling). If they are blinking fast, your firmware is being updated (see step 4 below). If the eyes are pointing down or not lit up at all, disconnect and reconnect your CUJO. If you are still having trouble, try an alternate connection method as shown above. If you are still having trouble, contact us at hi@getcujo.com or 1-844-GET-CUJO and we will walk you through the setup.

Firmware Update

If your CUJO's eyes are blinking fast it means that your firmware is being updated. Do not unplug your network or your CUJO when the eyes are blinking. You may lose Internet connectivity while the firmware is being updated. This should not take longer than 2-3 minutes. After the firmware updates itself, your CUJO's eyes will smile again.

Allow CUJO up to 48 hours to find and identify all devices on your network. Using the app, you can also edit each device and assign a name and model.

Compatibility

CUJO is compatible with all known routers in Bridge mode connected to CUJO's bottom port. In Bridge mode, you must also connect another device to CUJO's top port:

- Access Point
- Switch
- Router running in "Bridge mode" or "Access Point" (AP) or "Wireless Access Point" mode.

Also, you can make your router become a switch by:

- Disabling the DHCP server on your router
- Plugging the ethernet cable on your router from the WAN port to the LAN port

To connect CUJO in DHCP mode, the router must have the ability to turn off the DHCP server (or the ability to change the router's IP, please follow the exact steps on the app). Most routers are compatible with this configuration.

Known exceptions:

- "Bridge mode only" routers (incompatible with "DHCP mode"):
Eero, Google WiFi and Google OnHub
- "Unconfigurable ISP Router" (no way to turn off DHCP server or change router's IP) that needs at least one other device running as an Access Point:
AT&T Uverse (NVG510), Technicolor (TC8715, TC8717), Huawei (B310, B683)
- Compatible only in CUJO Bridge mode while connected to the bottom CUJO port:
Luma

DHCP Mode

To connect CUJO in DHCP mode, the router must have the ability to turn off the DHCP server. Most routers are compatible with this configuration.

To set DHCP mode manually, use the app and you will see instructions for manual DHCP setup:

- 1) Log in to your router
- 2) Navigate to the page (it's usually under Advanced settings and called Local Area Network (LAN)) where you can change the router's IP address and DHCP settings
- 3) Disable the DHCP server (and change router's IP if needed)
- 5) Save settings
- 6) Reboot the CUJO device (unplug the power cord from CUJO and plug it back in)

Some routers (like "Xfinity" or "Apple AirPort") does not have the ability to disable the DHCP server, in this case there is a special configuration that helps CUJO override your router's DHCP server. You will need to:

- 1) Log in to your router
- 2) If the CUJO app asks, change your router's IP. Save settings. Your router will reboot. Then try to log in to your router using the new IP.
- 3) Add the CUJO device to the static IP reservation list and remember the current CUJO IP (write it down for the next step).
- 4) Set the new range of the DHCP server on your router to this reserved CUJO IP. Save settings. Your router may reboot again.

After these steps complete successfully, CUJO will override the DHCP server on your network.

Network Setup Examples

Your ISP usually provides either the modem and router as separate devices or as a combo all in one box. If you have one device that combines the modem and router, we will simply call it router.

Also, if you can connect more than one device to your ISP's box or if it has WiFi capabilities, that usually means that you have router, not a modem.

So, you may have one of these device configurations provided by your ISP:

Definitions for advanced users:

Modem - a device that does not have NAT and DHCP server capabilities

Router - a device that does have and runs the NAT and DHCP server

- ⚠️ CUJO can only be connected to your ISP's router, not your ISP's modem.
- ⚠️ If you have the setup with an ISP modem and "Bridge mode only" router, then you need to get an additional device that provides NAT and DHCP.
- ⚠️ If you have one of the "Unconfigurable ISP Routers", then you need to get an additional device that will server as your Access Point.

The preferred CUJO mode options according to your current network setup:

- 1) DHCP mode: Router → devices
- 2) Bridge mode: Router → “Bridge mode only” router → devices
- 3) Bridge mode: Router → Access Point | Switch → devices
- 4) DHCP mode: Router → device + “Bridge mode only” router | Access Point | Switch → devices
- 5) Incompatible: “Bridge mode only” router → devices
- 6) Incompatible: “Unconfigurable ISP Router” → devices
- 7) Bridge mode: “Unconfigurable ISP Router” → “Bridge mode only” router → devices
- 8) Bridge mode: “Unconfigurable ISP Router” → Access Point | Switch → devices

* In the above modes where we say devices, you may have any device connected to the network or you can have another Switch or Access Point that will extend your network

Option 1: Router → devices

All your devices connected to your router will be protected by CUJO.

Option 2: Router → “Bridge mode only” router → devices

You need to set the mode of the “Bridge mode only” router to Bridge mode

If you have devices connected to your router, then they will be unprotected by CUJO. CUJO will only protect devices connected to the “Bridge mode only” router. If you want to protect all your network devices, then you need to run CUJO in DHCP mode, see Option 4

Option 3: Router → Access Point | Switch → devices

If you have devices connected to your router, then they will be unprotected by CUJO. CUJO will only protect the devices connected to the Access Point. If you want to protect all your network devices, then you need to run CUJO in DHCP mode, see Option 4

Option 4: Router → device + “Bridge mode only” router | Access Point | Switch → devices

In this setup, CUJO will protect all your network devices, whether they are connected directly to router or through the access point (switch or router in bridge mode)

Option 5: “Bridge mode only” router → devices

Incompatible

To connect CUJO in this setup, you need to replace your modem with a modem + router combo box or connect another router to get network setup Option 1.

Option 6: “Unconfigurable ISP Router” → devices

Incompatible

To connect CUJO in this setup, you need to get an additional device running as an Access Point to get network setup Option 7 or Option 8.

Option 7: “Unconfigurable ISP Router” → “Bridge mode only” router → devices

You need to set the mode of the “Bridge mode only” router to Bridge mode.

If you have devices connected to your router, then they will be unprotected by CUJO. CUJO will only protect the devices connected to the “Bridge mode only” router.

Option 8: “Unconfigurable ISP Router” → Access Point | Switch → devices

If you have devices connected to your router, then they will be unprotected by CUJO. CUJO will only protect the devices connected to the Access Point.

Advanced network example

Comments:

- The main router will serve as NAT and the default DHCP server on the network
- Other routers on the network need to run in Access Point, Bridge, or Switch modes
- We recommend VoIP and other real time streaming sensitive devices be left outside CUJO's scope since CUJO does not have QoS implementation

NEITHER CUJO NOR ANY OTHER PARTY INVOLVED IN CREATING, PRODUCING, OR DELIVERING THE SERVICES OR CONTENT WILL BE LIABLE FOR ANY INCIDENTAL, SPECIAL, EXEMPLARY OR CONSEQUENTIAL DAMAGES, INCLUDING LOST PROFITS, LOSS OF DATA OR GOODWILL, SERVICE INTERRUPTION, COMPUTER DAMAGE OR NETWORK INTERRUPTION OR IMPACT ON OTHER DEVICES OR SYSTEM FAILURE OR THE COST OF SUBSTITUTE SERVICES ARISING OUT OF OR IN CONNECTION WITH THESE TERMS OR FROM THE USE OF OR INABILITY TO USE THE SERVICES OR CONTENT, WHETHER BASED ON WARRANTY, CONTRACT, TORT (INCLUDING NEGLIGENCE), PRODUCT LIABILITY OR ANY OTHER LEGAL THEORY, AND WHETHER OR NOT CUJO HAS BEEN INFORMED OF THE POSSIBILITY OF SUCH DAMAGE, EVEN IF A LIMITED REMEDY SET FORTH HEREIN IS FOUND TO HAVE FAILED OF ITS ESSENTIAL PURPOSE. SOME JURISDICTIONS DO NOT ALLOW THE EXCLUSION OR LIMITATION OF LIABILITY FOR CONSEQUENTIAL OR INCIDENTAL DAMAGES, SO THE ABOVE LIMITATION MAY NOT APPLY TO YOU.

Dispute Resolution

Governing Law

These Terms and any action related thereto will be governed by the laws of the State of California without regard to its conflict of laws provisions.

Agreement to Arbitrate

You and CUJO agree that any dispute, claim or controversy arising out of or relating to these Terms or the breach, termination, enforcement, interpretation or validity thereof or the use of the Services or Content (collectively, "Disputes") will be settled by binding arbitration, except that each party retains the right: (i) to bring an individual action in small claims court and (ii) to seek injunctive or other equitable relief in a court of competent jurisdiction to prevent the actual or threatened infringement, misappropriation or violation of a party's copyrights, trademarks, trade secrets, patents or other intellectual property rights (the action described in the foregoing clause (ii), an "IP Protection Action"). Without limiting the preceding sentence, you will also have the right to litigate any other Dispute if you provide CUJO with written notice of your desire to do so by email or regular mail at 2150 Park Place Suite 100, El Segundo, CA 90245, (1-844-GET- CUJO) within thirty (30) days following the date you first agree to these Terms (such notice, an "Arbitration Opt-out Notice"). If you don't provide CUJO with an Arbitration Opt-out Notice within the thirty (30) day period, you will be deemed to have knowingly and intentionally waived your right to litigate any Dispute except as expressly set forth in clauses (i) and (ii) above. The exclusive jurisdiction and venue of any IP Protection Action or, if you timely provide CUJO with an Arbitration Opt-out Notice, will be the state and federal courts located in the Northern District of California and each of the parties hereto waives any objection to jurisdiction and venue in such courts. Unless you timely provide CUJO with an Arbitration Opt- out Notice, you acknowledge and agree that you and CUJO are each waiving the right to a trial by jury or to participate as a plaintiff or class member in any purported class action or representative proceeding. Further, unless both you and CUJO otherwise agree in writing, the arbitrator may not consolidate more than one person's claims, and may not otherwise preside over any form of any class or representative proceeding. If this specific paragraph is held unenforceable, then the entirety of this "Dispute Resolution" section will be deemed void. Except as provided in the preceding sentence, this "Dispute Resolution" section will survive any termination of these Terms.

Arbitration Rules

The arbitration will be administered by the American Arbitration Association ("AAA") in accordance with the Commercial Arbitration Rules and the Supplementary Procedures for Consumer Related Disputes (the "AAA Rules") then in effect, except as modified by this "Dispute Resolution" section. (The AAA Rules are available at www.adr.org/arb_med or by calling the AAA at 1-800-778-7879.) The Federal Arbitration Act will govern the interpretation and enforcement of this Section.

Arbitration Process

A party who desires to initiate arbitration must provide the other party with a written Demand for Arbitration as specified in the AAA Rules. The arbitrator will be either a retired judge or an attorney licensed to practice law and will be selected by the parties from the AAA's roster of arbitrators. If the parties are unable to agree upon an arbitrator within seven (7) days of delivery of the Demand for Arbitration, then the AAA will appoint the arbitrator in accordance with the AAA Rules.

Arbitration Location and Procedure

Unless you and CUJO otherwise agree, the arbitration will be conducted in the county where you reside. If your claim does not exceed $10,000, then the arbitration will be conducted solely on the basis of the documents that you and CUJO submit to the arbitrator, unless you request a hearing or the arbitrator determines that a hearing is necessary. If your claim exceeds $10,000, your right to a hearing will be determined by the AAA Rules. Subject to the AAA Rules, the arbitrator will have the discretion to direct a reasonable exchange of information by the parties, consistent with the expedited nature of the arbitration.

Arbitrator's Decision

The arbitrator will render an award within the time frame specified in the AAA Rules. The arbitrator's decision will include the essential findings and conclusions upon which the arbitrator based the award. Judgment on the arbitration award may be entered in any court having jurisdiction thereof. The arbitrator's award of damages must be consistent with the terms of the "Limitation of Liability" section above as to the types and amounts of damages for which a party may be held liable. The arbitrator may award declaratory or injunctive relief only in favor of the claimant and only to the extent necessary to provide relief warranted by the claimant's individual claim. If you prevail in arbitration you will be entitled to an award of attorneys' fees and expenses, to the extent provided under applicable law. CUJO will not seek, and hereby waives all rights it may have under applicable law to recover, attorneys' fees and expenses if it prevails in arbitration.

Fees

Your responsibility to pay any AAA filing, administrative and arbitrator fees will be solely as set forth in the AAA Rules. However, if your claim for damages does not exceed $75,000, CUJO will pay all such fees unless the arbitrator finds that either the substance of your claim or the relief sought in your Demand for Arbitration was frivolous or was brought for an improper purpose (as measured by the standards set forth in Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 11(b)).

Changes

Notwithstanding the provisions of the "Modification" section above, if CUJO changes this "Dispute Resolution" section after the date you first accepted these Terms (or accepted any subsequent changes to these Terms), you may reject any such change by sending us written notice (including by email to hi@getcujo.com) within 30 days of the date such change became effective, as indicated in the "Last Updated" date above or in the date of CUJO's email to you notifying you of such change. By rejecting any change, you are agreeing that you will arbitrate any Dispute between you and CUJO in accordance with the provisions of this "Dispute Resolution" section as of the date you first accepted these Terms (or accepted any subsequent changes to these Terms).

General Terms

These Terms constitute the entire and exclusive understanding and agreement between CUJO and you regarding the Services and Content, and these Terms supersede and replace any and all prior oral or written understandings or agreements between CUJO and you regarding the Services and Content. If any provision of these Terms is held invalid or unenforceable (either by an arbitrator appointed pursuant to the terms of the "Arbitration" section above or by court of competent jurisdiction, but only if you timely opt out of arbitration by sending us an Arbitration Opt-out Notice in accordance with the terms set forth above), that provision will be enforced to the maximum extent permissible and the other provisions of these Terms will remain in full force and effect. You may not assign or transfer these Terms, by operation of law or otherwise, without CUJO's prior written consent. Any attempt by you to assign or transfer these Terms, without such consent, will be null. CUJO may freely assign or transfer these Terms without restriction. Subject to the foregoing, these Terms will bind and inure to the benefit of the parties, their successors and permitted assigns.

Any notices or other communications provided by CUJO under these Terms, including those regarding modifications to these Terms, will be given: (i) via email; or (ii) by posting to the Services. For notices made by e-mail, the date of receipt will be deemed the date on which such notice is transmitted.

CUJO's failure to enforce any right or provision of these Terms will not be considered a waiver of such right or provision. The waiver of any such right or provision will be effective only if in writing and signed by a duly authorized representative of CUJO. Except as expressly set forth in these Terms, the exercise by either party of any of its remedies under these Terms will be without prejudice to its other remedies under these Terms or otherwise.
