The A4FH comes loaded with more technology than some would expect in such a compact tv. The voice remote gives quick access to the built-in Google Assistant, opens the door to a vast library of content, as well as, gives the user voice control over tv functions. Motion Rate 120 ensures that content motion is smooth and distinct with less blurring. This feature is important for the tv's game and sports modes which adjust the tv settings for the optimal viewing experience when playing the latest fast-paced games or watching fast-action sports content. The A4FH also comes with DTS Virtual:X for a more robust audio experience. For the consumer in the market for a smaller size television that still packs a punch, look no further than the A4FH.
